Letter From The Executive Director

Dear Friends,

Domestic violence touches every community in New York State.

Our state has a long and storied history as a national leader. However, being Number 1 isn't always something to be proud of. According to the Domestic Violence Counts: National Census of Domestic Violence Services (coordinated by the National Network to End Domestic Violence), New York has the highest demand for domestic violence services in the country, for the second consecutive year.

Data from the 2016 Census indicate that:

On one day alone, 6,868 victims of domestic violence received services in New York.

Of those services, 2,761 victims (including adults and children) received critical non-residential services which include counseling, legal advocacy, and children's support groups.

On that same day, 1,390 requests for domestic violence services went unmet because of critical funding and staffing shortages. This represents a 45% increase over the 2015 Census.

Also in 2016, domestic violence programs reported that 83 staff positions, most of which were direct service advocates, were eliminated. Considering the last two Census reports, 199 advocate positions were eliminated in 2015 and 2016. As a result, there are far fewer advocates across the state to answer calls for help.

We cannot end domestic violence until we also address what causes it.

The staggering demand for domestic violence services in New York shows us that we must do more. This is a call to action, as a meaningful investment in domestic violence services and primary prevention must be a top priority in our state.

The challenge in front of us is to send a clear message that the Legislature and the State have to do more to help protect survivors of domestic violence. And equally important, take significant steps toward working to prevent domestic violence before it occurs in the first place.

It is unacceptable for New York to be the #1 state in the country with the highest demand for domestic violence services.

I look forward to working with you as we raise our voices to create and sustain a strong statewide domestic violence coalition and network of domestic violence services, as well as innovative primary prevention initiatives that can truly serve as a leader.

All the best,

COALITION BUILDING

NYSCADV facilitates coalition building, networking, and collaboration on local, regional, state, and national levels through a variety of mechanisms. To ensure broad-based statewide participation in the Coalition, the NYSCADV Board of Directors includes Regional Representatives who are elected by their peers. The Regional Representatives convene regional meetings to foster increased involvement of local domestic violence service providers in the Coalition and to stimulate the exchange of ideas and information.

NYSCADV participates in relevant statewide and national advisory committees, task forces, and workgroups, ensuring that the voices of survivors as conveyed to us by our membership, are heard. NYSCADV is an active member of the National Network to End Domestic Violence (NNEDV), which provides us with the opportunity to be part of the national dialogue occurring among all state domestic violence coalitions.

NYSCADV provides opportunities for dialogue, networking and support with others involved in the movement to end domestic violence. We convene meetings to promote communication and collaboration on the local, regional, state, and national levels and communicate with our membership to offer timely notification of information and issues critical to their work.

ADVOCACY

Advocacy occurs through a variety of mechanisms, including training, technical assistance, community outreach, and collaboration with system partners and allied organizations. We continually assess trends through these modes of information gathering and, in turn, NYSCADV staff routinely meets with our statewide partners to identify ways to address the concerns of the community. NYSCADV also conducts advocacy efforts through community outreach and resource development to promote public awareness about domestic violence.

This includes our website and social media pages which provide information for not only our membership but for the general public; special projects, events, and campaigns; and resources that describe best practices. Additionally, NYSCADV coordinates and implements specialized projects that address emerging trends. Overall, our work emphasizes the links between all forms of oppression and violence by promoting peace and justice for all individuals. We advocate for the availability and accessibility of high quality, culturally competent services for everyone, and work diligently to increase access for all communities.

Our Work

PRIMARY PREVENTION

NYSCADV works to create and support the social change necessary to prevent and confront all forms of domestic violence. Consistent with this mission and vision for our work, NYSCADV emphasizes efforts to prevent domestic violence. This approach, known as primary prevention, focuses on stopping violence before it occurs.

Primary prevention requires changing conditions in the culture of our society that support and condone intimate partner violence. This is an ongoing process, requiring a commitment to social change efforts that compliment intervention strategies. One of NYSCADV's core operating assumptions is that meaningful and lasting change happens at the community level. As such, our efforts focus on supporting communities to find effective and locally relevant methods for organizing and mobilizing. This work is at the heart of our coalition building efforts.

Our Work

PUBLIC POLICY

Protect Rights. Promote Justice. Prevent Domestic Violence.

NYSCADV provides statewide leadership on public policy issues by promoting legislation, systems, and regulatory change in order to improve institutional responses to domestic violence. The goal of NYSCADV's public policy work is the passage of state and federal budgets that adequately support the work of local domestic violence advocacy programs; the passage of legislation that will enhance the prevention of and response to domestic violence; and, when necessary, raise concerns about legislation that would negatively impact victims of domestic violence and the provision of services to them. NYSCADV provides assistance to programs to do the same on the local level. NYSCADV connects with member programs on a variety of legislative initiatives and provides updates on state and national developments.

NYSCADV's public policy work is informed by membership and allies via the NYSCADV Legislative Committee. The Legislative Committee is a key conduit of information and input between member programs, allies, other experts, and NYSCADV staff. Historically, the Legislative Committee has provided vision and guidance, as well as time and talent, toward the implementation of NYSCADV's annual legislative agenda and strategy. Central to the work of public policy initiatives are the NYSCADV principles for practice and core mission.

ACCESS & INCLUSION

Increasing accessibility to domestic violence programs continues to be a primary focus of the work that we do. In these ongoing efforts, NYSCADV has gathered feedback from member programs and other stakeholders requesting more targeted, issue specific approaches to the range of issues regarding improving accessibility. Feedback from stakeholders across the state indicates that domestic violence services are, at times, very limited for too many victims. Lack of access to services endangers people even further, and causes retraumatization. The ultimate goal of this project is to work with programs to increase their ability to provide services to all who are eligible and to ensure that those services are offered in a manner that is not limited or retraumatizing in any way. Through this project, we conduct ongoing analysis of practices that have shifted away from their original intent and may have resulted in decreasing the accessibility of domestic violence services, and work to remedy them through technical assistance, capacity building, peer support and training.

EXPERT WITNESS PROJECT

Domestic violence advocates can provide pertinent and compelling information during court proceedings that describe the prevalence and magnitude of domestic violence, explain the nature and dynamics of domestic violence, and shed light on the social and cultural context of abuse. Advocates can also paint a compelling picture of the consequences and effects of abuse on people who have been victimized, their children, and the family system as a whole. Advocates are skilled at explaining the commonly misunderstood survival strategies that victims and survivors employ to increase their safety and that of their children.

As such, the NYSCADV Expert Witness Project has been working to grow and cultivate a network of advocates to serve as experts in domestic violence court proceedings across the state. NYSCADV will continue to support this burgeoning community of practice with ongoing training and technical assistance, and compile research and talking points to use in the provision of expert witness testimony and the preparation of reports.

DISASTER PREPAREDNESS & RESPONSE

The Disaster Preparedness & Response Project grew out of a collaborative effort between NYSCADV and the New York State Office of Child and Family Services and was designed to increase the capacity of domestic violence programs and first responders to prepare for and respond to survivors' needs in the midst of a disaster. The project, funded through FVPSA, was developed in response to recovery efforts in the aftermath of Superstorm Sandy. Disasters like Superstorm Sandy expose the underlying social disparities among vulnerable populations, including victims of intimate partner violence. Domestic violence programs also face challenges to sustain the well-being and resilience of staff both during and after a disaster strikes. Disaster preparedness is important, and practices focused on response, recovery and mitigation are equally important. This project, which also addresses the after-effects of domestic violence homicide and other traumatic events that affect advocates includes: facilitating trainings and discussions with key staff at domestic violence programs across the state and local first responders; maintaining a clearinghouse of resources which includes a searchable database for sheltering pets; and providing support and assistance to programs impacted by natural or human-made disasters through a Critical Incident Stress Management framework.
